AMERICAN CYCLING ASSOCIATION of Washington

HERE'S YOUR TICKET! ➔

Dear Cyclist,

You probably know me as the owner of R+E Cycles, or maybe as the person who fixed your bike on one of our area's weekend rides this year. You might even know me as the maker of RODRIGUEZ Custom bikes and tandems. I do all of the above and more. I want to take a second to tell you about something I do that you may not be aware of.

For the past 3 years I've served on the Board of Directors of Bikecentennial, the national organization devoted to recreational bicycling. In 1974, Bikecentennial began developing a cross-country cycling route to be inaugurated in 1976, our nation's bicentennial year. Since then the staff has dedicated itself to researching and mapping a national network of cycling routes, as well as providing information services for all bicycle travelers. In addition to an outstanding mapping and tours program, Bikecentennial has created a strong advocacy program that makes cycling better for all of us at the local, state, and national level. This nonprofit organization also helps to keep a positive view of bicycling before the public by distributing press kits and photos to hundreds of magazines and newspapers each year. You might think of Bikecentennial as the AAA of cycling.

You might find the items I've mentioned thus far are hard to visualize... hard to use in your day to day cycling. That's where BikeReport and The Cyclists' Yellow Pages come in.

BikeReport is sent to members nine times each year and is full of stories, reviews, articles, and commentary about cycling travel. This magazine is the opposite of the slick, ad-filled pages of the consumer magazines that you can buy at the newsstands and bicycle shops. The Cyclists' Yellow Pages, fully updated each year, is the only resource that you'll ever need to plan a cycling trip. It has hundreds of addresses for information in every state and most foreign countries. It alone is worth the price of membership.

Enough said. I'm proud to be a life member of Bikecentennial and I am asking you to join today and begin enjoying and using BikeReport, The Cyclists' Yellow Pages, and other worthwhile services of this national organization. Whether you are planning the cycling trip of a lifetime or just want down-to-earth magazines and resource information about cycling, Bikecentennial is for you. Please join today.

Sincerely,

A. Rodriguez
